

On Race and Girlhood

A Roundtable Discussion
Lunch served

Friday, May 1, 2015, 12:00 – 2:00 PM

191 College Avenue, 1st Floor, New Brunswick, NJ

Rachel Devlin (History, RU-NB)

Miya Carey (History, RU-NB)

Dara Walker (History, RU-NB)

Molly Rosner (American Studies, RU-Newark)

How have girls been historical actors? When innocence is a racial privilege and growing up an economic luxury, what does it mean to be a girl? When the freedoms of women are under siege, what does it mean to be a girl?

Join the Center for Race and Ethnicity for a critical survey of girlhood. Our roundtable discussion invites scholars to consider the changing meanings, complexities, and possibilities of girlhood.

The Center for Race and Ethnicity
Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey
191 College Avenue, 1st Floor
New Brunswick, NJ 08901
(848) 932-2181 voice (732) 932-2198 fax
raceethnicity@sas.rutgers.edu <http://raceethnicity.rutgers.edu>

RUTGERS
Office of Institutional
Diversity and Inclusion